Whether new to the Enneagram, more advanced in your learning, or teaching the system, this two-day immersion experience will offer you material to deepen your self-understanding as well as expand ways of using the Enneagram Map.

Participant takeaways

- Awareness of patterns and narratives that limit our capacity for living & loving fully
- A deepened self-understanding
- An exploration of your "ego ideal" and world view of each type
- Type-specific questions for journaling
- Practices for moving beyond automatic patterns and being more present to the life we have.

This immersion experience will be particularly useful to Psychologists, LCSWs, LMFTs and Counselors who work with clients who know their Enneagram type and want to make use of the language clients already know. A special 1- 1.5 hour session will be offered during lunch, led by area psychologists

Dr. Ronda Redden Reitz and Dr. Lee Ensign, to discuss applicability of the Enneagram system with clients.

"As a therapeutic tool, the Enneagram allows people a non-judgmental framework for exploring fixed patterns of perception and behavior which recurrently impact close relationships, work performance, and self-image."
